MT. VERNON, ROCKCASTLE COUNTY, KY., FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 1, 1918

NUMBER 10

LIVINGSTON

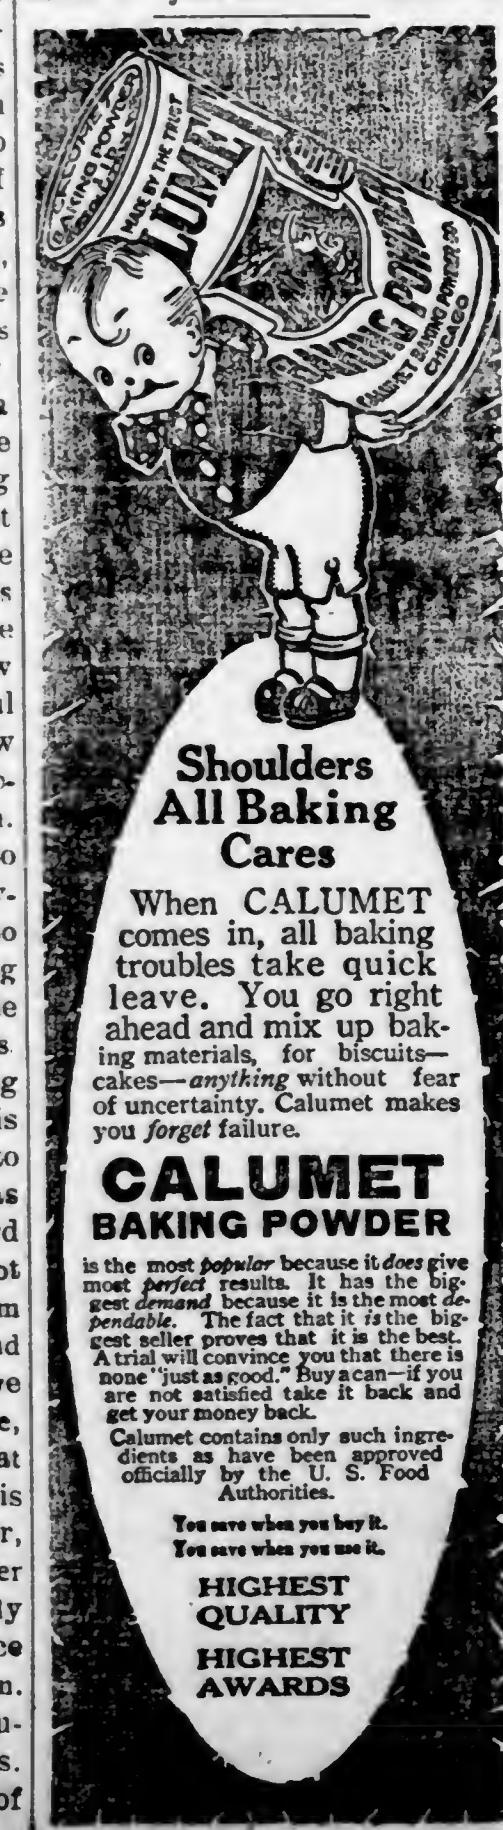

C. H. Frith, of Brodhead, was in our town Tuesday.—S. E. Hellard, of Mt Vernon, was here between trains, Monday.—Dr. Pennington, of London, was here Sunday to see Mrs. Jim Jones, who has been very sick.—Mrs. John Mullins, of Berea, visited Mrs. G. D. Cook, Sunday and Monday.—We understand that L. H. Davis has purchased Lee Mullins' stock of goods, and Mullins will retire from the goods business.—Mrs. J. D. Cattin and daughter, of Lebanon, were visiting Mr. and Mrs. I. W. Cattin, Sunday.—Mr. and Mrs. Fred Baker, of Mt. Vernon, visited Mrs. Baker's father, Daniel Ponder, Sunday.—C. C. Davis of Mt. Vernon, was here Sunday for a few hours.—What has become of the Boone Way man? Haven't seen anything of him for quite a while. Drop us line J. M.—Mrs. S. E. Hellard, of Mt. Vernon, was in our town latter part of last week.—Mrs. G. T. Hellard visited relatives in Mt. Vernon latter part of last week.—Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Higgins have returned from a week's visit with relatives at Pittsburgh.—Mrs. W. M. Fallas and children have returned from Louisville, after a few days' visit with relatives.—Mrs. Root Marting and children, of Covington, are visiting relatives here this week.—Leslie Rambo has mumps and is quite sick.—Miss Sallie Cook, of Jellico, is visiting her cousin, Miss Lydia Cook.—C. M. Griffin has moved his family back to our town.—J. M. Fenwell has been quite sick for a few days, but at present he is able to be at his post.—We believe, when congress gets through with the "Boose" question, we will have booseless days.—Judge L. W. Bethurum, of Mt. Vernon, was here between trains, Tuesday.—Dr. and Mrs. R. G. Webb, were called a few days ago to Burning Springs Clay County, on account of the death of the Drs. father.—Everett Mullins, of Mt. Vernon, was here between trains, Monday.—Rockcastle River has been out of its banks, and Tuesday it began to look like would reach the danger stage. It put the L. & N. pump out of commission and several families had to move out of their houses.—F. W. Oakley, of Ravenna, was in to visit his family Tuesday. He will move there to Ravenna in a few days.—Mrs. David Smith has been quite sick but is better at this writing.—Miss Ella Mae Blanford, who has been quite sick of measles is much better.—J. P. E. Drummond, who had the misfortune to get one of his legs broken, and who has been in the hospital at London, Ky., for about two months, came home Tuesday walking on crutches.—A dog bit the little child of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Griffin, in the face a few days ago, which caused the little one a great deal of suffering but is much better now.—At last the snow has disappeared and we again look on old mother earth as we have wanted to see her for the past seven weeks. Some fellow once said: "Oh, the beautiful snow," but where is that fellow now?—Closing day is being observed by all in our little town. We believe everyone is willing to make any sacrifice that the Government will ask, if needs be, to help whip the Kaiser. Anything that Uncle Sam wants, the people will be there with the goods. While there may be some among us that are half-hearted in this war for Democracy, it leads us to think of the prayer that was prayed many years ago: "Lord forgive them for they know not what they do." Judging from the work of the Red Cross and how our country stood by it, we should be proud of our people, but anyone that is not willing at this stage of the game to do his bit, or is a friend of the Kaiser, should be reported to the proper authorities and justice quickly meted out to them.—W. A. Rice was shot twice by O. N. Johnson, at Paris, Ky., Tuesday. Particulars not learned. Mr. and Mrs. Rice, Mrs. W. A. Rice and three of his brothers went there Tuesday night.—On account of a very painful finger, we were unable to write last week and therefore had no letter in the Signal. We failed to see anything from Brodhead. Wonder if he had a sore finger too, or perhaps he has obtained a railroad guide and was trying to head us off in the Bond Issue. He claimed we were taking in the Big 4; the L. H. & St L and others to prove the amount we named. We will say in the outset, if we find any roads that our people have subscribed for bonds through, even though it be the Nickel Plate, the Cotton Belt, or the Texas and Pacific, we will mention it. So my friend don't get worried. We know you do not like the dope we are giving you but the doctor says take it.

We have received a letter from Jarve Cook, of Wallin Creek, Ky., and he says he is in favor of the people sticking to what they promised to do for Col. James Maret, that is buying a car and making the Colonel a present of it. He says after he has worked without ceasing for years to get the Boone Way on the map, and now that the road is almost completed, he thinks now is the time to show J. M. our appreciation for what he has done. He said for his part he would give $100 to start the ball rolling. Hurrah for you Jarve. Now if all will put their shoulder to the wheel and roll, it will not be long until our old friend J. M. can have a car to ride in and will not have to walk over the road that he worked so hard to help build, and besides, if there is someone we wish to honor or do a favor let's do it with her. This would do more good than wreaths, or a tree monument after a man is gone. If we wish to do some one a kindness let's do it while they live, for the dead need nothing.

DREADFUL COUGH CURED

A severe cold is often followed by a rough cough for which Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has proven especially valuable. Mrs. F. W. Olsen, Maryville, Mo., writes: "About two years ago my little boy, Jean, caught a severe cold and coughed dreadful for days. I tried a number of cough medicines but nothing did him any good until I gave him Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It relieved his cough right away and before he had finished taking one bottle he was cured. I think it just fine for children.

EARLY HISTORY
OF KENTUCKY
RECALLED

Interesting Paper Read
At the Meeting of the Circuit Judges.

BY JUDGE B. J. BETHURUM

The following interesting paper by Judge B. J. Bethurum, of Somerset, dealing with a time in Kentucky's history when the State was in turmoil over an act of the Legislature extending the time for stay of collection by replevin from one to two years, was read by Judge Bethurum at a meeting of Circuit Judges of the State held recently in Louisville.

The article was as follows:

The subject of this address perhaps may not impress the judges as being wholly appropriate for discussion on an occasion of this sort. At first I doubted it, but after mature consideration, all doubt was removed from my mind, and now I consider the stirring incidents connected with the "Old and New Court Controversy," which happened nearly 100 years ago, to be the most interesting as well as the most thrilling, of any past events connected with the history of the Commonwealth, with the possible exception of those immediately associated with the Civil War. It is therefore, a theme that should appeal to everyone interested in court procedure, and the past history of the State.

In order that the cause of this most unfortunate judicial tangle may be fully understood, it will be necessary, before entering into the discussion proper, to review briefly the financial and political history of Kentucky prior to and at the time the controversy arose.

In the years of 1817-18, the people of the State found themselves face to face with grave financial embarrassment. In fact the State itself was reeling and staggering under a heavy load of indebtedness, which it had unwisely assumed. These conditions resulted from an unfortunate inflation of the paper currency in use at that time, and from unwise banking legislation all of which tended to force the withdrawal of the precious metals from circulation. This currency in finances had a depressing effect upon business and commerce, and in a very short while the individual citizen found himself confronted with disaster. In order to obtain relief as quickly as possible, the people made an earnest appeal to the Legislature, which promptly responded by passing, at the 1819-20 session, laws extending the time for replevy of judgment debt from three to twelve months, and later, in obedience to greater pressure by a distressed people, extended the time for stay of collection by replevy from one to two years, and this applies to debts created both before and after the passage of the act.

The enactment of this law greatly displeased the creditor class of Kentucky, and very soon their opposition began to crystallize into definite form. They appealed to the courts for redress, and at the same time organized to create sentiment against the law among the masses of the people. The discussions in court and on the stump were both heated and acrimonious. The ordinary amenities among gentlemen were forgotten, and the State was soon lashed into a fury. Politics of the old school were, for the time, brushed aside, and a new alignment formed, composed of the Relief and Anti-Relief parties.

Before the Senate.

Legislation Attacked.

The anti-relief party attacked the new legislation upon the ground that the act violated that clause of the Tenth

Section of the first Article of the Constitution of the United States which declares: "That no State shall pass any law impairing the obligation of contracts." It was attacked in the celebrated case of Blair, etc., vs. Williams in which Judge Boyle, Chief Justice of the Kentucky Court of Appeals, later rendered a decision which may be found in Fourth Listell, page 24. That opinion discloses that on the 12th day of November, 1819, Blair, Ingles, and Barr executed their joint promissory note to Williams for debt, payable sixty days after date. The money not being paid when it came due, Williams, some time thereafter, brought suit upon the note in the Bourbon Circuit Court, and recovered judgment for the amount of the debt against Blair, Ingles, and Barr, and in accordance to the provisions of the law of the Legislature, mentioned entered into a recognizance in the Clerk's office for the payment of the money at the end of two years. This recognizance Williams moved the court to quash on the alleged grounds that the act under which it was taken was repugnant both to the Federal and State Constitutions. Judge Clark, so held and accordingly quashed the recognizance. It is a lamentable fact that for this judicial act, this incorrigible Judge was shamefully traduced.

The relief party promptly appealed the case to the Court of Appeals. That court was then composed of three judges, all of whom were appointed by the Governor "by and with the consent of the Senate." Judge John Boyle, Chief Justice, was appointed to the bench April 1, 1809, and became Chief Justice, March 10, 1810. Judge William Owsley and Judge Benjamin Mills, the other Judges, were appointed to the bench April 1812, and February, 1820, respectively. It now became the duty of these three eminent Judges to settle this litigation, and the eyes of the whole State were focused upon them. All three Judges were men of high ability, frank and courageous, and all this is simply attested by the manner in which they disposed of the legal controversy, and afterward fought for and won, a vindication of their position before their people. It is useless to say that the Court of Appeals affirmed the lower court and in an opinion, afane with wisdom and logic, declared the act in question unconstitutional and void.

The State had been in a condition of unrest while the higher court considered this case. The great popular majority of that time felt that the so-called relief laws had denied the people the right to interfere after the people, through their representatives, had said what they desired. So intense was the bitterness prevailing at the time that there were open threats of violence in the event the decision should be adverse to the popular will. The opinion of the court in Blair, etc., vs. Williams was delivered on the 5th day of October, 1823, and the other cases involving the same question were decided October 11, three days later.

Bedlam in Kentucky.

As soon as the higher court passed upon the question bedlam broke loose in Kentucky. The adherents of the relief party were thrown into a violent rage and with the tongue of slander they denounced the judges as tyrants, who had wickedly substituted their own will for the will of the people, and denied the majority the right to rule. The judges were publicly denounced from the stump and through the press, and while this was being done, Judge Bibb, who represented the relief side of the Blair vs. Williams, filed a petition for rehearing. But the fact that no rehearing was granted and the judgment allowed to stand is a silent memorial to the courage, the honesty and the high purposes of the men who graced that great tribunal in this important period of our judicial and political history.

But before the petition for rehearing was granted and while it was pending, the legislative session of the fall of 1823 convened and this question was taken up. Inflammatory resolutions were introduced in the Legislature, in which after twenty-six pages of caustic preamble, the Legislature most solemnly protested against the principles set forth in the opinion of the court. But it is refreshing to know that the great court, in spite of the fact that the sword of Damocles was suspended a threatening menace over its head in the form of political speeches and printed resolutions of the Legislature, on the 4th day of December, 1823, overruled the petition for rehearing.

There followed the introduction of this foolish and highly inappropriate resolution a spirited and earnest discussion, participated in by the Hon. George Robertson, the Speaker of the House, who delivered a wonderful speech, which covered twenty-four closely printed pages of matter from which he discarded all unnecessary ornament, restrained with careful guard all tendency to flights of rhetoric, in clear and pell-mell language, and in great earnest, appealing to his fellow members to return to and preserve the good name of the State. In spite of this earnest and patriotic appeal, on the 10th day of December, 1823, overruled the petition for rehearing.

The next in order was the campaign for the Governorship and the control of the Legislature. This was fought out in the year of 1824. Of course, the fight between the Relief and the Anti-Relief parties, and the issue was the removal of the judges of the Court of Appeals. The people were exceedingly angry over this, and they had believed that the courts had acted corruptly in passing on the question, so they indignantly rejected every appeal that was made to them by the leaders of the Anti-Relief party.

The Relief party named for Governor Joseph Desha, and for Lieutenant Governor Robert McAfee, while the Anti-Relief party put forward for Governor Christopher Tompkins and for Lieutenant Governor W. B. Blackburn. The election was a narrow one, the Relief party winning by a large majority, and the control of both houses of the Legislature passed to them, thus assuring the Relief party absolute and undisputed mastery of the State Government with the exception of the Court of Appeals.

When the new lawmakers met they summoned the judges of the Court of Appeals before the bar of the Legislature to show cause why they should not be removed from office. Of course, these distinguished jurists declined to respond in person, but submitted a report (Continued on last page.)

WHAT'S THE WAR NEWS? When I read? These questions are asked daily by millions of people throughout the world. Expert writers vary in their opinion as greatly as do people in other lines of thought and action. Many are of the opinion that the great strife will end before the elapse of six months; others believe that hostilities cease before the end of 1918. The incanting of the Kaiser's name continues their frightful war by unseas boats, the number of vessels being sunk is growing less, day by day.

The loss of life by their activities during past two weeks has been greater, 700 lives being taken on the destruction of one vessel in the Mediterranean sea, the last since the sinking of the Lusitania. The Germans are no respectors of nations, striking blindly at everything that they find, caring not for ruthless slaughter and cold-blooded murder of people, men, women and babies hundreds of whom have no connection with the war. That's German "Kultur" which the Kaiser has planned for and doomed for the last forty years.

The Kaiserites have been and are yet anxious for peace tho on their own terms pretending to be under the belief that their forces are invincible and will be in the end.

It is believed that Germany is nearing the end of her rope, tho she is yet capable of doing immense damage and the destruction of thousands upon thousands of lives. American lives remember before she is finally subdued indications are that the Kaiserites are being massed on the coast for one last desperate effort to overcome and break thru the entente forces, believing that probably they will be in a position to dictate peace terms to the world. Should it ever happen that the Kaiser be that dictator, then God pity the people of the world. The Babylonian captivity of the Jews multiplied by ten would be the result with existing conditions made equal in the same ratio.

Can America allow appathy and carelessness permit such a country to befall the world, whose lives are in danger? We think not. America is gathering to the rescue and is backed by patriotic forces who are each doing his best for the "boys over there" and thousands who are following them from this side.

As has been often said in these columns Rockcastle usually first in the field in movement of enterprise and for betterment, is never a laggard. Dr. M. Pennington, of Mt. Vernon was the first man in Kentucky to begin an organization for the purpose of lending aid to the Government soon after war was declared. Meetings were called and the "Patriotic League" was organized and the title was used until the Government itself, thru its representatives evolved their system of organized state and county Councils of Defense etc. which really followed the lines laid down by Mt. Vernon, far seeing and patriotic physician, who to this good day has carried on the work started when the Patriotic League was launched.

Dr. E. J. Brown, another native of old Rockcastle hills, now one of Stanford's leading physicians, is at the head of an organization of his own creation which he has named "The Liberty Service League." Its objects being along pretty much the same lines as other organizations looking to aiding in all possible ways our Government in its fight for world wide liberty and Democracy.

ROBSION ADDRESSES BIG CROWD AT MANCHESTER

(Special to the Herald)

Tho Dr. Brown's council or league is a little "different" in some respects, requiring the disbursement of an investigating committee, as to fitness, is one can become a member. No dues attached. It is said this service league is accomplishing good results.

It will be recalled that it was a Mt. Vernon man and his citizens, who put a great thru high way on the map.

History records the pleasing fact that wherever a native of Rockcastle is found, no matter on what part of the globe it may be, a noise is heard there or thereabouts and there's some thing doing too; always for the upbuilding and betterment of cordials.

KENTUCKY has for half a century been a standing joke for writers on the booze question and a rich field for paragraphs with their little flings on that subject. The old Commonwealth pleads guilty of having made more and a better grade of the stuff than any other territory of its size, but the day is at hand when the said writers and paragraphs will be obliged to hunt other fields for material to employ their active pens and pen-cils. Of the 120 Kentucky counties 109 are dry; the distilleries are as silent as the old mill of the days "when you and I were young Maggie," with beautiful prospects of the cobwebs gathered on their machinery remaining forever undisturbed. The citizens themselves had been working on the proposition and had accomplished much toward the elimination of the stuff that steals away the brain, and now our good old Uncle Sam steps in and says a word and its manufacture stops in a day and it is confidently believed will remain stopped for all time to come. The day of deliverance is here and freedom shall reign supreme.

It is said the bible school is the largest organization in the world.

BRODHEAD

All general stores close here Monday at noon by order of the Federal Fuel Administrator, and the people are urged to arrange their buying so as to conform to this order. Every merchant in this town and vicinity is willing to co-operate with the Government to that extent in order to aid in fuel saving, and the people should be willing to conform to these rules and not feel that it is a hatched up scheme with the merchants. Nothing will be sold on Monday at any grocery or general store, except food, and other essentials should be purchased on Saturday if the supply is not sufficient to last until Tuesday. This order is only a taste of what our people will be required or rather compelled to do before the end of the present world-wide war and we had better begin to learn "that to obey is better than sacrifice," for we are sure to learn how to obey and that before long, and many of us will be forced to sacrifice before the dawn of a warless day comes. —Mrs. W. E. Gravely recently received a message that her mother was at the point of death, but we have heard nothing further, and presume that she is still alive. —R. E. Albright and Mrs. Albright are now located at 33 Spear Avenue, Ashville, N. C., and will be glad to hear from their many friends "back home". Dick is much better and it seems certain that he will soon regain his health. Mrs. Albright went there before Christmas and they have been housekeeping at the above address since about the time she arrived there. It is good news to those much interested in their welfare to know that they are getting along fine. —Mr. and Mrs. Logan McCall, of Stanford, were recent visitors to relatives here. —Prof. J. L. Pilkenton, Principal of Brodhead Graded and High School, received a letter this week which we take great pleasure in reproducing: This letter is dated, "Pittsburg, Pa., Jan. 23, 1918. Mr. Joseph L. The Beautiful Gulf Coast

"The Riviera of America."

Probably in no part of the south is there to be found a more salubrious and restful country than along the shore of the Gulf of Mexico from New Orleans east to Mobile and Pensacola, where nature has been lavish in the distribution of her bounties. There is the sparkling water of the Gulf and the bay indented shore forming natural water ways for all manner of water sports, sailing, motoring, canoeing, fishing and the like. This charming resort land is easily accessible, and may be quickly reached by modern steel trains over the Louisville & Nashville R. R. passengers may leave Cincinnati, Louisville or Evansville in the evening, and arrive at the Gulf coast resorts the following afternoon.

The mild, equable climate with which this district is favored is a delight to the tourist. The climate is delightful at all seasons of the year; during the winter months it is moderate and bracing, putting soap and water into the system.

The Gulf Coast is fast becoming one of the popular watering places of the country, and counts among its recent guests the distinguished President of the United States. It is lined with many resort cities and towns, each extending a hospitable welcome to the visitor. Every resort is shaded by age-old ancestral oak, hung with trailing vines and Spanish moss; and they all look over the Gulf waters, at the dancing waves, the scudding sails and the beach and the surf.

The placid waters and the sloping shores give to boating and aquatic sports enjoyments unexcelled and abundant hours of fish and game afford an endless paradise to devotees of rod and gun; and many golf courses and tennis courts provide ample opportunities for the enthusiasts of those fascinating games.

Most excellent opportunities are there for the lover of motoring in the abundance of the fine shell roads which skirt the shore of the Gulf under the massive live oaks and extend back into the pine forest, along the shores of the many bays and bayous, the magnificent scenery along these roads appealing strongly to one's sense of the beauties of nature. If one can't find happiness and contentment down there in the golden sunshine and among the countless diversions and attractions of that playground he is indeed hard to please.

Numerous hotels and boarding houses at the various Gulf Coast resorts provide admirably for the comfort of guests, and the variety admits of terms to fit any purse, depending upon the individual requirements of the visitor, who can be housed among the luxuries of the more fashionable hotels, or in the less pretentious ones, according to his own desires. In buying tickets to New Orleans and Gulf Coast Resorts passengers should see that they read beyond Evansville, Louisville or Cincinnati via the Louisville & Nashville R. The sumptuous through steel trains are equipped with drawing room sleepers and reclining chair cars. All meals en route are provided in dining cars; the service is a la carte (you pay only for what you order) and the prices are moderate. This place is famous for the excellence of its dining car service; it has a superior, and few, if any, equals.

Passengers from Cincinnati, Louisville, Frankfort or Evansville and vicinity contemplating a trip to Florida may easily, and at slight additional cost, arrange their route to permit of a visit to the Gulf Coast. Tickets to Florida routed via Louisville & Nashville R. R., through River Junction, allow privilege to stop over at Miami, Fla., from which point round trip site tickets may be purchased to these resorts.

Many of Mr. Powers' supporters in other campaigns assured Judge Robson of their support. Judge Robson was introduced by Judge R. W. House, County Judge of Clay county. —Louisville Herald, January 24.

A beautifully illustrated folder describing this enchanting vacation land, may be obtained at the principal ticket offices of the Louisville & Nashville R. R., or by addressing R. D. Pusey, General Passenger Agent L. & N. R. R., Louisville, Ky.

PERUNA Household Helper

Peruna eases the burden of the housekeeper by keeping away the danger of illness resulting from colds, coughs, and indigestion due to catarrhal condition. It speedily relieves and overcomes these.

Its tonic properties build up the strength of the physically weak.

The wise housekeeper has Peruna on hand for instant use even if catarrhal trouble should arise.

A dose or two in time often prevents a long illness.

PERSONAL

Mrs. H. T. Young who has been quite sick, is improving.
Judge Haggard, of Brodhead, was here yesterday.

Our good friend U. G. Baker continues to improve, tho slowly.

Clever Sid Azbill, the man of stetorium, basso-profunda voice was in town today.

Mrs. Fauny Adams left yesterday for Paris to visit Dr. and Mrs. J. M. Williams.

Mrs. R. E. Thompson, of Crab Orchard, is with her mother, Mrs. W. M. Poynter.

"Hello Joe" was in from Winchester talking groceries and war with Mt. Vernon business men today.

Miss Jennie M. Miller has returned to her Mystic home after a pleasant visit to Mt. Vernon relatives.

Will Adams arrived this morning from the Naval Training Camp, Great Lakes, Ills., for a visit to homefolks.

Dwight Bowman, who was discharged from the army at Camp Shelby on account of his age, returned home last night.

Herbert Cox is in for a week's vacation, from Laporte, Ind., where he is holding down a good position in a machine shop.

Misses Susie Hicks, Beatrice Shelton, Einora Firth and Thelma Pilkenton, of Brodhead, were week-end visitors of Miss Jo Davis.

After being housed for a good part of the winter, Crab Orchard's poll man, R. L. Collier was here last week and loaded a car of poles, in spite of sleet, ice and snow.

Miss Risie McFerron who came in home last week from Bryant & Stratton Business College, very sick, is much better. She was met at Lebanon Junction by his step-father, Fred Krueger.

The Boone Way man was, on invitation of the Louisville Automobile Club, in the city during the week holding conference with that organization regarding affairs connected with highways.

Dr. B. F. Walter, our new Dentist, is now located over U. G. Baker's store ready for business. Dr. Walter has lived and practiced his profession in Lancaster for a great many years and he comes to us well recommended by a number of the leading citizens of that town.

The many friends of J. P. E. Drummond, the Livingston merchant, will be glad to know that he has recovered sufficiently to return to his home from the London hospital where he has been confined for seven weeks. He can travel around some little by the use of his crutches.

In the roll of honor, published on a large, beautifully designed poster, issued by Company G, 149th U. S. Infantry, Camp Shelby, Hattiesburg, Miss., appears the name of Corporal Monroe Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Miller, Rockcastle county. See the poster in Fish's window.

Dr. Walter, Dentist, is now located over U. G. Baker's store, same offices occupied by Dr. P. H. Conover.

Don't fail to see PAULINE FREDERICK in Mantle of the Wilds, a five reel picture at Boone Way opera house, Saturday night Feb. 2nd, 7 o'clock.

Our efficient and accomodating postmaster, Mrs. Cleo Brown, reports fine sales of war saving stamps at Mt. Vernon as well as offices throughout the county.

John E. Price, the engineer who was caught under his engine and badly scalded when No. 34 wrecked near Conway last week, died at his home in Covington Sunday.

A CARD OF THANKS We wish to express our many thanks to those who were so kind in assisting us in the sickness and death of our dear father.

MISS EVA LAY.

County Agent Spence demonstrated, at the meeting last Monday, the great importance of testing seed corn to be used this season, for the reason of early frosts having killed the germs in much of the 1917 product.

A DESERVED HONOR. Dr. A. G. Lovell, has been made a Fellow of the American Medical Association, on account of his state and county record in the medical profession. This association is the largest of its kind in the world.

Of the number of ladies who have been working at Red Cross headquarters for the past month, making hospital garments for the soldiers, there are three who have never missed a day. They are Madames M. Pennington, J. Fish and S. F. Bowman.

Information of Sheriff Scoville London, a man supposed to be Dudley Shelton was arrested at Milford, Ill., on Wednesday last. Shelton is charged with the murder of J. Mort Rothwell, a prominent Garrard County Attorney, at Crab Orchard, some years since.

"The sacrifices we are exacting of the noble American boys who are going to the bloody fields of France for the lives and liberty of us who stay at home call to us with an irresistible appeal to support them with our most earnest efforts in the work we must do at home."—Secretary McAdoo.

Roads have been most improperly located and badly drained for such a long period of time that it is now difficult to teach the people that proper location and proper drainage are permanent improvements and of prime importance if the road is to be economically maintained.

The men's bible class of Mt. Vernon Christian Church has received a large photograph of their ward, little Miss Stella Irene Scanland, aged 11, of the Christian Church Orphans Home, Louisville, Ky. The picture was brought to Sunday School last Sunday and viewed by eager and pleased guardian eyes. The picture indicates that she is a bright intelligent and fine looking girl. The class will have her visit a number of Mt. Vernon homes next summer as their guest.

Walter Rice, who was brutally shot at Paris Tuesday, by O. H. Johnson, an L. & N. brakeman, died last night at 9 o'clock. The burial will take place at Stanford either tomorrow or Sunday. Only meager reports have been received as to the killing, but as best we have been able to get the facts, Johnson who was crazed by drink, and mad because he had been called into army service, walked into a restaurant where he found Rice, made some reference to the fact that Uncle Sam had called him into service and said: "Before Uncle Sam gets me I will get you." The first shot struck Rice in the breast passing through the lung. The second shot took effect in the back. The deceased, who is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Charley Rice, of Livingston, has many friends in Rockcastle who deeply deplore his untimely death and to the bereaved family extend their sympathy. The deceased was a Mason and member of the B. of L. E.

NOTICE.—If those who wish to buy a monument or tombstone will see me at once, I can save you money, as I am thinking of going out of the monument business.

Mt. Vernon has one of the best posted and a leading Sunday School lecturer and bible student in the person of Judge John Watson Brown. Those of our citizens who fail to attend the exercises at Christian Church Sunday's certainly miss a treat.

You are welcome to come and the invitation to attend is extended. It will be a profitable Sunday to you. Come around once and you will become a regular.

Misses Amy Proctor and Ruth Landrum entertained at a Progressive Book Party, at the home of the former, last Saturday evening from 9 to 11. The guests present were: Misses Bonnie Nicely, Christine Davis, Sydney Crawford, Christine Mc Ferron, Amy Proctor and Ruth Landrum. Messrs. Earl Cox, John Albright, Richard Cox, Ramey Richards, Jones Fish and Mr. Tort, of Cincinnati. Delicacies cake and hot coco were served. Miss Christine Davis and Mr. Richard Cox were the best players of the evening.

STOCK PENS.—A number of enthusiastic farmers and business men were present at the meeting Monday to consider plans etc. for the establishing of stock pens in Mt. Vernon. Rev. M. G. Fish was made chairman and C. D. Sutton secretary of the meeting. As the stock pen meeting was not called to convene until after the adjournment of the War Council, time prevented consideration of many phases of the situation. About the only definite action taken was the appointment of a committee to look out a suitable location and report at 1 o'clock today. The committee is composed of Gus Stevenson, David Hysinger, W. A. McKenzie, Claud Griffin and Edgar Mullins. Every one seems especially interested and there is no doubt but that a complete organization will be perfected, at to-day's meeting.

WAR COUNCIL. On Monday

last the most important and largest attended meeting convened in Mt. Vernon court house that has taken place since the outbreak of hostilities. The people, in answer to invitation of the County Board of National Defense came from all sections of the county and listened with wrapt attention to the splen-

Food and Fuel Administrators, lawyers and others, who clearly explained conditions and the manner in which the Government advises and directs our citizens to proceed in these momentous times and grave conditions.

The manner of observing heatless, meatless and wheatless days and the various reasons therefor were fully explained and the audience was fully convinced of the duties owed by every citizen to observe the regulations as set down by our Government. Explanatory literature was distributed and the meeting was by far the most impressive that has been held in our country for many a day.

Among the resolutions passed was one requesting the Fiscal

Court to make an appropriation

HELP TO SAVE FOOD

President Calls Upon All Loyal Americans to Unite in Campaign

Suggestions of Food Administration Will Enable the United States to Meet Real Responsibility If Prompt Action is Taken, Declares President.

Washington, Jan. 26.—Following is text of President Wilson's food-saving proclamation:

Many causes have contributed to create the necessity for a more intensive effort on the part of our people to save food in order that we may supply our associates in the war with the sustenance vitally necessary to them in these days of privation and stress.
The reduced productivity of Europe because of the large diversion of manpower to the war, the partial failure of harvests and the elimination of the most distant markets for foodstuffs through the destruction of shipping, places the burden of their subsistence very largely on our shoulders.

The food administration has formulated suggestions which, if followed, will enable us to meet this great responsibility.

In order that we may reduce our consumption of wheat and wheat products by thirty per cent—a reduction imperatively necessary to provide the supply for overseas—wholesalers, jobbers and retailers should purchase and re-sell to their customers only seventy per cent of the amounts used in 1917.
All manufacturers of alimentary pastes, biscuits, crackers, pastry and breakfast cereals should reduce their purchases and consumption of wheat and wheat flour to seventy per cent of their 1917 requirements, and all bakers of bread and rolls to eighty per cent of their current requirements. Consumers should reduce their purchase of wheat products for home preparation to at least seventy per cent of those of last year, or, when buying bread, should purchase mixed cereals from the bakers.

Substitute Potatoes.

To provide sufficient cereal food, houses, public eating places, dealers and manufacturers should substitute potatoes, vegetables, corn, barley, oat and rice products, and the mixed cereal bread and other products of the bakers which contains an admixture of other cereals.

In order that consumption may be restricted to this extent, Mondays and Wednesdays should be observed as wheatless days each week, and one meal each day should be observed as a wheatless meal.

In both homes and public eating places, in order to reduce the consumption of meat, pork and sweet products, Tuesday should be observed as meatless day in each week, one meatless meal should be observed in each day; while, in addition, Saturday in each week should further be observed as a day upon which to eliminate pork.

A continued economy in the use of sugar will be necessary until later in the year.

It is imperative that all waste and unnecessary consumption of all sorts of foodstuffs should be rigidly eliminated.

The maintenance of the health and strength of our own people is vitally necessary at this time, and there should be no dangerous restriction of the food supply; but the elimination of every sort of waste and the substitution of other commodities of which we have more abundant supplies for those which we need to save, will in no way impair the strength of our people.

Urge Cooperation.

I therefore, in the national interest, call upon the liberty of calling upon every loyal American to take fully to heart the suggestions which are being circulated by the food administration and of begging that they be followed.
I am confident that the great body of our women, who have labored so loyally in co-operation with the food administration will strengthen their efforts and will take as a part of their burden in this period of national service to see that the above suggestions are observed throughout the land.

W. G. WOODROW WILSON.

The White House,
18 January, 1918.

SUMMARY OF RULES.

Rules have been formulated by the department to effect the necessary saving of foods. Some of these rules apply to manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers under Heerse regulations.
Others apply to the housewife and stated briefly cover the following points: The consumer is requested to purchase an equal amount of some other cereal for all wheat flour purchased. They may be used separately or mixed as the housewife chooses.
Purchase of Victory bread is strongly urged. This will consist of a minimum of five per cent of cereal other than wheat for the present, the percentage to be increased until on February 24th it will contain a minimum percentage of twenty per cent. On wheatless days and wheatless meals use of bread made entirely of other cereals is urged. For local situations where exceptions are necessary, applications should be made to state food administrations.

Early History Recalled

ous, but dignified, response in writing, in which they elaborated the grounds of their resolution. On the 26th day of December, their resolution was introduced in the House, in which the legislature sought to "assure the judges out of office" that the Constitution required the House by a vote of 61 to 39. The Senate, foreseeing the defeat of the resolutions in the House, approached the subject from another angle, and on December 9 passed an act repealing all laws establishing the Court. Agents and undertakings to create a new Court of Appeals.
When the measure reached the House body consumed three days in its discussion.

The debate was spirited and exciting, and was participated in by such men as the late Bradford and the late Albert Wickliffe, who championed the cause of the old Court, and whose speeches against the constitutionality of the measure were masterpieces of eloquence and logic. There was great confusion in the House during the delivery of these speeches, and these great arguments often turned the tide against the bill, and to the utter disgust of all, the Governor of the State was upon the floor of the House urging the passage of the bill. So unusual was the fight for the passage of this bill, that the late Chief Justice, George R. Barry, appealed a camp meeting in emphasizing his name, but lacked its holy impulsiveness. At midnight, December 23, after the most strenuous battle in the annals of the legislation of this State, the House concerned in the Senate bill, and it immediately found approval at the hands of the Governor.

The Court of Appeals having been supposedly legislated out of office, the Governor proceeded to appoint a new one. He named William T. Barry as Chief Justice and an Associate Justice, James Haggard, John Trimble and Benjamin Patton. Upon the death of the latter, which occurred soon after his appointment, Kermit H. Miller, who had been appointed as his successor, Chief Justice, Barry was re-appointed as a distinguishing lawyer, but is reported to have lived under great disadvantages as a Judge. Haggard was a prominent member of the Lexington bar, where he enjoyed a large and lucrative practice, but violent assault were made upon him upon his practice. Trimble was the brother of a Judge of the Circuit Court, who died a natural death. Trimble, however, was a man of great ability and was immensely popular. He was a man of great personal and official reputation.

These great patriots, who faced this critical situation, and bore themselves with such marvelous fortitude throughout the trouble, not only immortalized their own names, but by their example inspired and upheld the morale of the entire nation through all future generations. There were men who did not look upon the Constitution as a frail and tottering edifice that afforded no shelter in times of storm. They regarded it as the bulwark of our liberty; as the great fortress of our common safety; and in times of extreme peril—a sturdy wall of the chivalrous councils of the heroic dead.

Link in the golden words of Judge Clark, of the Bourbon Circuit Court, the first Court to pass on the constitutionality of the bill, versus the constitutionality of the measure, and having been summoned to appear before the Legislature and show cause why it should not be removed by address, responded in the following language:

"In pronouncing a verdict that is incompetent, it is not necessary that the court which does not assume a superiority over the legislative assembly, it announces only that the will of the people expressed in their Constitution is above the will of any of their servants of the people. It is the will of the people after the most mature deliberation, which I am able to afford, and from a firm conviction of the principles there mentioned, and I must have been not only rashless in my conscience, but to the destruction of the United States and the dignity of the judicial office had I expressed any other opinion."
